Organisational preparation (application, consultation with host institution, etc.):

Our SRH team engaged in productive conversation regarding future development of joint project, the possibilities to do research and the potential to exchange students and faculty under the Erasmus agreement. We met with several teams from different departments and discussed their best practices, each one mutually sharing our professional experiences.

Start of the mobility (welcoming at the host institution, orientation at the host country, etc.):

We were welcomed by the Vice President on the 21st of September. Then we were given a campus tour and then we had a series of presentations in different labs.

Course of the mobility (exchange, learning successes, cooperation talks, further procedure, etc.):

After the presentations were completed, we had a round of question-and-answer sessions with each department. Our cooperation talks continued through a series of separated tours through the facility. We were introduced to the team that installed and managed their supercomputer donated by Huawei.

What are the results of my stay abroad (cooperation agreement, expansion of the internationalisation of the SRH, personal development etc.):

I personally valued this visit very highly because through personal contact and exchange of ideas we were able to understand each other's needs in terms of research areas, student involvement, publication funding, and the need for organizing guest lectures and seminar in exchange at each institution in the future.

Impressions (photos, links etc....):

My colleagues took many pictures.
